Software Developer

Penguin Lab / Asuncion / 2022

As a Full Stack Developer, my work involved handling three main areas:

- Creating websites: I was responsible for designing and developing dynamic and user-friendly websites, incorporating the latest technologies and frameworks to ensure an engaging user experience.
- Developing applications: My role included designing and building mobile applications for both Android and iOS platforms, adhering to industry best practices to deliver high-performance and responsive apps.
- Implementing servers: I took charge of developing and maintaining robust server-side applications, ensuring smooth data management and efficient backend operations to support the overall functionality of the projects.
